Beyond Belief.

When Abraham Lincoln was a young man, his prodigious strength and his skill in wrestling were matters of note throughout central Illinois. Few indeed were the men who could boast of having laid him on his back.

Somewhere along in the thirties there was a case on trial in one of the circuit courts in that section in which an effort was made to impeach the testimony of one of the witnesses. The evidence was conflicting. Some would believe the witness on oath and others would not.

At last a middle aged man with a determined expression of countenance was called to the stand. The usual question was put touching the reputation of the witness for truth and veracity:

"Would you believe him on oath?"

"No, I wouldn't," he answered, and before the lawyer on the opposite side could interpose he gave his reason:

"I heard him bragging out that he'd thrown Abe Lincoln in a fair an square rattle."

No other witnesses were called. The attempt to impeach was successful.—Youth's Companion.

A Shrewd Yankee.

A certain Boston hotel man tells this good story at his own expense:

When a small boy on the farm, his folks often sent him to the neighbors to buy a dozen eggs when their hens failed to lay enough.

He noticed that the old farmer always held each egg before a lighted candle and examined it carefully. In his innocence of Yankee shrewdness the boy supposed that this was prompted more by honesty and intention to detect whether the eggs were bad or not.

One day, however, when he counted his eggs, according to custom, there were only eleven in the basket.

With a determination not to be cheated, the lad trudged proudly back to the house and quickly made known his discovery.

"Oh," said the old farmer, "that's all right, my boy. One of them has a double yolk."—Boston Record.

Sea Necklaces.

Pretty nearly every one has seen the curious "sea ruffles," or "sea necklaces," which are found plentifully on ocean beaches. These are the egg cases of the sea snails. They consist of a number of small disk shaped envelopes attached along a sort of stem, the biggest of them being in the middle. In each envelope there is a little spot of thinner material, which the young break through when they are ready to be hatched. When the female gastropod is about to lay, she buries herself in the sand, from the surface of which the "necklaces" of eggs are gradually extruded. Being thus set adrift and exposed to the elements, as well as to devouring enemies, few of the eggs are ever hatched, but those which do come into the world safely and survive doubtless live to a very great age.

The Rapid Moving Fly.

The rapidity with which insects travel is astonishing. The common house fly makes 600 strokes per second when in the act of ordinary flight, that number of strokes causing an advance movement of twenty-five feet. Our best naturalists say that this can be increased sevenfold.

He Was Sorry.

"A man just called, doctor, an ugly fellow, who asked if you were in and said he wanted to give you a horse-whipping."

"Well, and what did you tell him?"

"I said I was extremely sorry, but you were not at home!"—Der Dorfbarber.

The Education of the Parrot.

To teach a parrot to talk it is never necessary to place the poor bird in a darkened room or to starve him. Common sense would suggest that he should be made as happy as possible in his surroundings. Give him good food—hemp, maize, oats, biscuit. As a slice of fruit is always beneficial, a bit of apple, of pear, of banana or of carrot will do very well. Also see that your pet has pure drinking water, a large cage, some soft wood to gnaw, with plenty of coarse grit on the floor of the cage, for he needs the small stones to aid his digestion. A parrot in those comfortable circumstances may then be left alone in a room while his teacher conceals himself in another. The teacher, who should be heard, but not seen, should repeat, with infinite patience, over and over again the word or words he wishes his pet to learn. The female parrots do not talk—the female of the song birds, it should be remembered, is not a singer—so that efforts of education in that line are quite thrown away.—Our Animal Friends.

Cicero.

Cardinal Newman was a master in the art of writing English. In one of his published letters he expressed the following opinion:

"As to patterns for imitation, the only master of style I ever had was Cicero. I think I owe a great deal to him and, so far as I know, to no one else."

Bishop Wordsworth of St. Andrews, another masterly writer of English, says in his autobiography:

"So far as I have derived benefit from any one in the matter of composition it has been from Cicero. I do not underrate the advantage of a combined study of authors such as Addison, Swift, Bolingbroke, Johnson, Burke, Hume, Gibbon, Macaulay and I may add, Horace Walpole, but I must repeat that I believe I got more good, not only in writing Latin, but for writing English, from reading Cicero and learning him by heart than from any other source."

Long Flight of the Humming Bird.

That it may have the entire field to itself and escape the keen competition of hosts of tropical relatives for the nectar and minute insects in the deep tubed brilliant flowers that please him best that jeweled atom, the ruby throated humming bird, sole representative of his family east of the Mississippi, travels from Central America or beyond to Labrador and back again every summer of its incessantly active little life. Think what the journey from Yucatan even to New England must mean for a creature so tiny that its outstretched wings measure barely two inches across! It is the smallest bird we have. Wherein lodges the force that propels it through the sky at a speed and a height which take it instantly beyond the range of human vision?—Ladies' Home Journal.

Lack of Clothing in Uganda.

A lack of clothing was and probably still is the most salient characteristic of the Wa-Kavirondo. "I am afraid you will find them very naked!" said a missionary to me on the borders of their country, and so we did; nothing could have been nakeder. From their walled villages they issued in swarms and crowded round the tents to gaze upon us, monsieur, madame and bebe, without a rag to their names nor a cloth between them, unless indeed a head necklace or a hippopotamus tooth bead behind the ear could be accounted clothing. An airy, buoyant folk, verily, and to missionary eyes a sad contrast to the semicivilized Waganda, with their greasy draperies of bark cloth.—Cornhill.

Madagascar's Two Climates.

The island of Madagascar has two distinct climates, two classes of natives and two classes of fauna and flora. The island is about the size of France. Along the coast it is tropical and malarious, and the natives are darker than in the interior. The interior is a high tableland and mountainous. There the climate is cooler and the natives smaller and lighter in color than on the coast. But in the interior they are more intelligent, and they rule the island.

McSwiney's Gun.

Near Horn Head, County Donegal, Ireland, there is a hole in the rocks called McSwiney's gun. It is on the seacoast and is said to have connection with a cavern. When the north wind blows and the sea is at half flood, the wind and the waves enter the cavern and send up jets of water from the "gun" to a height of more than 100 feet. The jets of water are accompanied by explosions which may be heard for miles.

One Wife's Cautious Claim.

"Is your wife one of those women who look at their husbands and say, 'I made a man of him?'" asked the impatient friend.

He Was a Financier.

Two members of the Chicago Stock Exchange went to a restaurant for luncheon, and after a hasty glance at the bill of fare each announced what he wanted.

"I'm for a fried bass," said one.

"Ditto," said the other. "Waitress, two fried bass, please."

In a few minutes the two bass on a platter and two plates were placed on the table. One bass was larger than the other, and the financier before whom the platter had been placed calmly passed the smaller bass to his companion.

"Now I call that a downright mean trick!" said the man who received the smaller bass.

"What is a mean trick?"

"Why, to give me the smaller bass and keep the big one for yourself."

"What would you have done if you had been serving the fish?"

"I should certainly have given you the larger one."

"Well, in that case I should have had the larger one. I've got it now. What more do you want?"

The argument did not seem convincing, but at the moment the other man was unable to find a satisfactory answer to it.—Chicago Chronicle.

A Sacred Chinese Coin.

One of the coins of the Chinese Emperor Kangleh is very much sought after by the Chinese, who use it in making rings for the finger. It is slightly different from the other cash issued under the same emperor in the form of one of the characters that indicate the reign period. The Chinese call it "Lo-han cash," the word Lo-han being a transcript in Chinese characters of the Sanskrit word Arhan, "venerable," the name applied to the eighteen attendants of Buddha, who are frequently seen ranged along the two sides of the principal halls in Buddhist temples.

The tradition is that while the emperor was ultimately associated with European missionaries he became imbued with a feeling of contempt for Buddhism and illustrated this phase of his faith by having a set of eighteen brass Lo-han images melted down and cast into cash. This brass is said to contain a considerable portion of gold; hence the demand for the cash.

She Had to Diet.

Doctors sometimes give their directions for taking drugs or other treatment in language beyond the comprehension of the patient. Occasionally tragic, but more often amusing, mistakes occur thereby. Judge tells one of the amusing kind, although it might have been uncomfortable at least.

A small colored girl went to a drug-store and said to the clerk, "Ma mammy wants some of de handsomest dye ye got."

"The handsomest?" repeated the clerk. "Well, I don't know. What does she want it for?"

"She done got de misery in her stomach, and de doctor say she must dye it, and she say if she hab got ter dye it she want it a handsome color."

The Force of Example.

When we read the life stories of men and women, we ourselves participate to some extent in their own experiences. Insensibly we place ourselves in the situations in which they found themselves, and the problems which confronted them seek their solution in our own brains. Their difficulties, their stumblings, their triumphs, become personal lessons by which we may get a wider experience of life than comes to us in our ordinary avocations, so that when the time comes when we are called upon for some momentous decision or to pursue some special line of conduct we have a precedent to guide us to the right course.—Scottish-American.

How a Spaniard Smokes.

The Spaniards are the most expert smokers in the world. A Spaniard, according to an observer who has traveled through Spain and South America, takes a heavy pull at his cigarette, inhales it, takes up a wine skin or wine bottle, pours a half pint down his throat, holding the vessel a foot from his mouth and not spilling a drop, and then with a sigh of satisfaction closes his eyes and exhales the smoke from his nose and mouth in clouds. He will then inhale the smoke, converse for a few minutes in a natural manner and then blow out the smoke.

Doing as He Was Told.

"What on earth," said a gentleman to his son, "are you doing up there, Johnny, sitting on the horse's back, when you ought to be at school?"

"Teacher said I was to write a composition on a horse," said the boy, "and I'm trying to, but it's awful difficult, 'cos he will keep moving so. I s'pose that's why teacher gave it to us to do, ain't it?"

W. Willey arrived on Monday's stage from Mohave county, Arizona. He left Jackson seven or eight years ago, and has been mining most of the time since on his own account in Arizona. He intends to stay in Jackson for several months.

Andrew Perovich got home from Byron Springs Wednesday evening. He is much better in health. He lost 16 pounds in weight from the effects of the baths. His son returned with him, about fully recovered from the rheumatism, which caused him to try the springs.

Charles W. Edsinger and Miss Lottie Sargent were married on the evening of the 23d in Stockton, at the First Baptist church parsonage by the Rev. William Thomas. We understand the newly married couple will make their home in Jackson. The bride taught school last term in New York Ranch district, and left there for Stockton on Thursday of last week.

Supervisor Newman has done a good piece of work on Main street, in front of the Webb building. The point below the granite crossing has been the worst place on the main street. Two teams were employed all day Monday in hauling rock from the Argonaut dump pile to fill in this depression. It was a much needed improvement, as it was a difficult place for heavy teams to pull up, and a handy spot for light rigs to break a spring by a sudden jolt.

One of the most sudden changes in temperature ever recorded in Amador county occurred on Sunday last during the prevalence of the remarkable thunder and hail storm mentioned elsewhere. Within half an hour the thermometer fell 20 degrees. Up to the past noon the weather had been sultry and oppressive, but the freezing condition of the upper strata, which produced the frozen and cooling hail, caused the speediest fall in the temperature ever known here within such a brief space of time.

Dr. C. W. Schacht has just added a neat and useful piece of furniture to his dental offices. It consists of a fountain spittoon of the latest improved pattern, known as the Weber spittoon. The bowl is of glass, so that no stains will attach to it. It is connected with the dental chair, and likewise with the water pipe and waste pipe. By simply turning on the faucet the bowl is cleaned in an instant. It is the only fountain of the kind to be seen in Jackson.

W. R. Selkirk has been working at the Kennedy mine for the past two weeks. He is employed in the underground work. He finds it somewhat hard to break himself into that kind of employment, after so many years of stinking type. It has one redeeming feature that goes a long way to offset the arduous nature of the work, namely, the value of his labor in cash is always awaiting him at the office when pay day comes round, an experience which he says is foreign to many country print shops. Last week he struck his foot with a pick, which laid him up for five days. He was able to get around again by the end of the week, and resume his work.

We published an item last week to the effect that C. Marella had refused $10,000 for the brick block on the corner of Court and Main streets. We are in a position to state that the promoters of the proposed new bank never made any such offer, and would not think of paying any such price. Marella was approached with the view of ascertaining what the property could be bought for, but when such figures as $10,000 were mentioned, negotiations were at an end.

Dr. Jameson, of the American, English and German specialists, who was advertised to be in Jackson on June 2d and 3d, writes from San Francisco that he will be unable to fill the appointment on account of sickness. The doctors have been compelled to cancel this date, but intend to visit here every month hereafter. These eminent specialists will be welcomed by the afflicted in those diseases which they have their particular study.

There are over 1000 voters registered up to the present time. This is a trifle over one-third of the total vote. Much indifference is manifested in regard to registration this year. Many regard it as a hardship that they should be put to the trouble of re-registering for every election. And it is a hardship. The law may be all right for the large cities, but in small counties like Amador a new register every four years would answer all purposes.

Elections for school trustees through out the county will be held on Friday of next week. In some districts they are preparing for a lively contest. It is well to see the people take a lively interest in school elections. In Jackson the retiring trustee is T. Norman, who was elected for the short term last year. He has served the district faithfully, and given general satisfaction. He is not seeking re-election, but will not object to serve if the voters want him, which they certainly do. It is not likely that he will have any opponent. There was a report current that another candidate was likely to aspire for the position; but the talk has been quieted down, and Norman will probably be the only one voted for. However, it is well for those interested to "look a little out," so that under the apathy incident to a non-contested election, some objectionable aspirant does not ring in enough votes to secure his election.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT KENNEDY.

Francisco Giovanoni falls in the Ore Chute, and is Killed.

A miner named Francisco Giovanoni lost his life at the Kennedy mine shortly after midnight on the night of May 26. The fatality was purely accidental. It occurred at the 2300 foot level of the north shaft. There were from fifteen to twenty men around there at the time. A plank 18 inches wide was in position for the men to walk to and from the shaft, and below this was a chasm thirty feet deep, made by the excavation of ore. Deceased was in the act of carrying the lunch bucket to the station when he was seen to make the fatal step off the plank, and fell to the bottom of the chute. B. Giovanoni saw him when he made the misstep. The plank was in the middle of the chute, with an opening between the walls and the plank of about two feet. Through this opening the deceased fell to his death. Coroner Gritton held an inquest on the body on Tuesday, before the following named jurors: L. Poggi, R. O. McKean, J. M. Huberty, Joseph Glukfeld, Arthur Hamrick, and B. F. Gilbert. The jury returned a verdict that the deceased came to his death on the 26th day of May by accidentally falling down an ore chute at the north shaft of the Kennedy mine. He was a single man, 27 years of age. The body was given into the hands of friends for burial.

The funeral took place Wednesday afternoon. Deceased's friends raised the sum of $75.00 to defray the expenses of the funeral. The remains were buried in the Catholic cemetery. Deceased leaves one brother in Jackson, and two cousins in Stockton; his parents and other relatives are in Italy.

The Fourth at Amador City.

The people of Amador City are determined to have a celebration in their town on the coming fourth of July that will compare with anything of the kind that has been witnessed in the county. They expect to raise by donation from $600 to $800, which, with the receipts of the ball, will give ample funds to make a grand affair. The following committee has been appointed to take charge of the matter, and make all arrangements therefor: J. R. Trelogan, chairman; O. E. Martin, secretary; J. Chichizola, treasurer; W. L. Haggerty and J. A. Phipps. Sub-committees will be appointed at once to look after the details. In addition to the usual literary exercises, there will be a drilling contest, athletic and other sports. A large platform will be erected for dancing, as the accommodation at the new hall is deemed inadequate for the demands of this occasion. The platform will probably be located across the creek in front of Chichizola's store. It will be about 40x80 in size. Everything promises an unusually attractive celebration. The citizens are enthusiastic over it, and the miners have agreed to donate a day's pay toward raising the necessary funds.

Manley's Condition.

J. Manley, who was struck over the head with a baseball club by Abe Baumgart of Plymouth, over two weeks ago, is not progressing toward recovery as fast as was at first hoped for. He is still in a very dangerous condition. He has been confined to his bed at the ranch of I. Stevens ever since the injuries were inflicted. He is apparently oblivious of everything. He cannot partake of food. Unless a great change takes place within a few days the chances seem to be against his recovery. There is talk of moving the patient to Plymouth, so that medical and surgical skill may be called in at short notice. No examination of the assailant has been held as yet, and is not likely to be until the outcome of the injuries can be more definitely ascertained.

Gardella-White.

As will be seen by the marriage notice elsewhere in this issue, Chas. Philip Gardella of this place and Miss Lena White of Jackson were quietly married at the residence of the groom's parents in this town on Friday of last week, Judge E. E. Buroe performing the judicial function which united the young couple for life. We have but a slight acquaintance with the bride, but the groom, whom we have known since his infancy, is a steady, industrious young man. On Saturday and Sunday evenings they held receptions at which all the good things incident to such occasions were lavishly dispensed and all enjoyed a pleasant time in music and dancing.—Calaveras Chronicle.

Died in Reno.

Word was received in Jackson yesterday that Frank Stewart, formerly of Ione, and the oldest son of the late Daniel Stewart of that town, died in Reno, May 29. Deceased was about 50 years of age. He was at one time engaged in the butcher business in partnership with J. Marchant. For several years past he has made his home in Reno, and was engaged in the butchering business there. He leaves a wife and family. The body will arrive in Ione Saturday afternoon, and the funeral will take place next Sunday, the remains to be deposited in the family plot in the cemetery of the valley town.

WEEKLY MINING RESUME

Moore Mine to be Sold at Public Auction.

Prospects Continue to Grow Brighter at the Bunker Hill—Big Mill for Fremont and Gover.

AMADOR-PHOENIX—W. A. Nevills, owner of the famous Rawhide mine in Tuolumne county, was in Jackson Friday of last week. He came here for the purpose of inspecting the Amador Phoenix mine near Clinton, with the view of securing an interest therein, if he should be satisfied as to its merits. Several of our townsmen, who are interested in the property, went up to the mine with him. He left the same afternoon for Sonora. The Amador Phoenix is only 140 feet deep—merely surface scratching. Scarcely anything can be known as to its merits as a mine at such a shallow depth. But the present owners have not the means to develop it to a greater depth, and hence the effort to induce other capitalists to take hold.

MOORE.—The Moore mine is advertised to be sold at public auction, to satisfy a judgment and decree of execution issued by the superior court of Calaveras county in the case of W. A. Nevills vs. Moore Mining Company, and H. F. Williams vs. W. A. Nevills, on the 18th day of June, at the court house in Jackson, by J. B. Luddy, the referee appointed by the court in said case. This is the termination of litigation that has been pending in the courts for the past seven or eight years. With the change of ownership of this property, it is hoped that this promising mine will be re-opened. According to all reports, it is likely to respond liberally to the expenditure of a little capital in its development. It has been idle for fifteen years. Its re-opening and development into a dividend payer, would stimulate the mining industry south of Jackson, and impart a new life to every department of business.

ARGONAUT.—The Argonaut has 25 feet more of sinking to do to carry the shaft down to the depth of 2230 feet. At this depth sinking will likely be suspended for a while. Should the sink against the Kennedy be decided by the time the sinking is completed, and decided in favor of the Argonaut, the way will then be cleared for the re-opening of mining and milling on a large scale. Should the decision be delayed beyond that time, however, it is uncertain what course the company will take.

BUNKER HILL.—The prospects of this mine continue to grow brighter. Last week they broke into the ledge at the 800 level, alongside of which they have been drifting for over 100 feet, and found that it was of higher grade than at the point where first encountered. Its dimensions, however, are not known. At the 1400 level explorations are being directed toward ascertaining whether this ledge exists at that depth, and if so its quality. Should it be found to show up on that level, the Bunker Hill will loom up with better prospects of a paying mine than at any time in its past history.

Active operations toward the erection of the big mill on the Fremont and Gover ground are expected to start within the next few days. It is reported that the lumber has been ordered. Some of it will be furnished from the Farnham mill, which has recently been started a few miles above Oleta, under the management of Ralph Farnham.

Brusie Gets a Good Appointment.

Jud C. Brusie, who was born and raised in the valley section of this county, and made his debut in public life as the representative of Amador county in the assembly, has just received the appointment of attorney and general representative on this coast of the Aetna Indemnity and Bond Company. The company has recently been reorganized with increased capital, and it is reported that the position of Mr. Brusie carries with it a fat salary. The many friends of Jud in this county will be pleased to hear of this slice of good fortune. Brusie left this county after serving one term in the legislature, and settled in Sacramento, where he remained for a number of years. For the past year or so he has been in San Francisco. He is a man of much ability, and will no doubt acquit himself in his new position with credit to himself and satisfaction to his company.

How Oblivious Met His Death.

Last Monday night there was an accident in the Stickle mine, by which a miner named Bozo Oblivious, an Austrian, was instantly killed. A blast had been set off in one of the drifts, which loosened a mass of rock in the roof, which did not fall at the time. When Oblivious walked into the drift some time after, a large rock fell, striking him on the head. The man's head was crushed out of all semblance to its proper form, and death was instantaneous. The man had been warned not to go into the drift as it was dangerous, but his fate seemed to lead him there and death was the result. The body was taken to Jackson Wednesday.—Pigeonpost.

Closing Exercises at Aetna School.

The Aetna school closed the term last Friday. The closing exercises were unusually interesting, and were listened to with much interest by a number of parents and friends of the pupils. The program was as follows, Miss Lila Fuller presiding at the organ: Opening chorus, "Native land," school; recitation, "Beth Geleert," Alma Dewitt; Lincoln exercises, J. Gardella, Nelson Vela, Steve Lenosa, Ray Plasse, Emmet Mackey, Romula Mollo; song, "Put me in my little bed," Misses Garbarini, Foppiano and Clark; recitation, "Somebody's mother," Hyard Holtz; dialogue, "Waiter's trials," Amelia Billings and Alma Dewitt; song, "Don't give up the old love," Nellie Driscoll; flag exercises, Ernest Brown, Chester Holtz, Frank Brown, Johnny Lenosa, Louis Foppiano, Earle Vela; song, "Our Washington," school; "City and country girl," Julia Foppiano and Teresa Lenosa; song, "The girl you dream about," Alma Dewitt; dialogue, "Mrs. Montgomery's visit," Ethel Clark, Gerlie Garbarini; recitation, "Only a boy," Earle Vela; song, "The rose," Blanche Mello; dialogue, "Going to the dentist," Chester Holtz, Johnny Lenosa, Louis Foppiano; recitation, "Song of the breeze," Frances Smith; song, "Treasures that gold cannot buy," Lila Fuller; recitation, "Angels of Buena Vista," Nellie Driscoll; concluding with a short farce entitled, "April fool."

VOLCANO.

VOLCANO, May 26.—All the baseball enthusiasts deserted town last Sunday in order to witness the game that took place at Pine Grove in the afternoon between the Jackson and Pine Grove teams. The game was a bad one, and therefore not interesting. A violent thunderstorm interrupted the game in the fifth inning, and so put a damper on the score, which threatened to pile up as high as the pines. The game stood something like 27 to 11. The Volcano team would like to have a set to with the Jacksons, and a future meeting was talked over, but no definite conclusion was reached.

The above mentioned thunderstorm was the most violent witnessed in this section for years. The water came down in great torrents, accompanied by hail stones of extraordinary size, and though the shower was only of a short duration it did a great deal of harm to the young fruit and to some hay recently cut down.

We have had a surfeit of traveling shows of late. The moving picture business seems to be overdone. Some of it is notoriously bad.

A good many of the boys are preparing to take in the Italian picnic next Sunday.

The young band of Volcano is seriously handicapped this summer. The opportunities for work in the woods have scattered the players so that only about half of them are able to be present to take lessons and practice, but a good foundation has been laid to take up the work in earnest next winter.

Heavy Thunderstorm.

A hail and thunder storm struck Jackson Sunday afternoon that has never been equaled within the memory of old residents. Hail stones as large as marbles fell for several minutes, and flashes of lightning and roar of the thunder was something terrible. The storm lasted fully two hours. Some chunks of frozen rain were measured and found to be three quarters of an inch in diameter. Young chickens were killed at Jackson Gate and other places by the hail. It is reported that goings even were battered to death by the storm. It appears to have been confined within very narrow limits. Its path was east to west, and its width was not more than four miles. Sutter Creek on the north and Butte City on the south were just outside of its path. It extended from Pine Grove to below Mountain Springs. It did considerable damage to the vegetable gardens, but the fruit was too far advanced to sustain material injury. During this storm the rainfall measured half an inch, making a total of 28.95 inches for the season, against 32.53 for the same period last year.

Caught for Internal Revenue.

H. S. Hudson, the special agent for the United States internal revenue service, who visited Jackson and other places in Amador county last week, managed to make a few hauls for violation of the revenue laws. He did not visit every business place subject to special taxes. In Jackson the only irregularities found consisted in a couple of old billiard tables, which are required to pay a license. On these he collected a license and penalty of $5. At Jackson Gate, Chillerie Bros., who have been doing a wholesale liquor business, were required to pay $125. In Sutter Creek M. Connors, the druggist, for selling alcohol was assessed $6. These are the only instances which have come under our notice.

Old Soldier's Experience.

M. M. Austin, a civil war veteran, of Winchester, Ind., writes: "my wife was sick a long time in spite of good doctor's treatment, but was wholly cured by Dr. Kings New Life Pills, which worked wonders for her health." They always do. Try them. Only 25c at D. B. Spagnoli's drug store.

A Case of Smallpox.

A mild case of smallpox was discovered in Jackson last Friday. The patient is Miss Phoebe Martell, who lives near the brewery. It is thought the disease was contracted in Sutter Creek, where the victim had been visiting. The attack is of the mildest type, and there is little reason to fear its spread if ordinary precautions are taken. The house has been strictly quarantined, and two guards employed to watch the premises—once during night and the other in daytime. Some trouble has been given the officers by the persistence of friends in visiting the house under quarantine, and hence the action of the authorities in placing such a strict watch over it.

Charles L. Calkins Dead.

Chas. L. Calkins, at one time connected with the Amador Record, died at Lovelock, Nevada, on the 28th instant. The Chronicle of the 29th says:

Charles L. Calkins, a widely known California newspaper man, special writer on the mining industry and associated with his brothers, William P. and Thomas D. Calkins, in the publication of the Pacific Coast Miner of San Francisco, died of pneumonia at Lovelock, Nev., on Tuesday last. His fatal illness was contracted while visiting the mining fields of Nevada, among which he had been engaged since the first of the year. He was a son of M. D. Calkins, a pioneer journalist and miner and founder of the Amador Record of Sutter Creek, and a brother of Leonard S. Calkins, in the Nevada City Transcript, postmaster of that place and past grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of California. The deceased had been associated with a number of newspapers of the state in past years, and had a very wide acquaintance and popularity among the mining men of California and Nevada. The remains were forwarded to San Francisco Wednesday for interment.

When it is understood that the same amount of fuel is consumed in producing either gas or heat, it is readily seen why one person will use four times as much coal as another without producing any more heat, if as much. When feeding coal after the fire is made, only a small quantity should be fed at a time, and that spread evenly over the surface of the fire, for when fresh coal is added it for a time lowers the temperature of the fire box (as pouring cold water into a pot of boiling water stops the boiling by lowering the temperature) until the added coal is heated up to the igniting point, when it first begins to burn and adds its heat to the mass. When but little coal is added, this lowering of the temperature will be hardly noticed, but add a large quantity, and it can be plainly seen.

When Coins Were First Made.

Certain passages in the "Iliad" of Homer would lead to the inference that coins of brass were struck as early as 1184 B. C. Tradition affirms that the Chinese had bronze coins as early as 1120 B. C. But Herodotus, "the father of history," ascribes the "invention" of coins to the Lydians, about nine centuries B. C., and there is no satisfactory evidence that coins were known prior to that date.

Right Doing.

One's rightful work is often halted

by fear of what others will say about it. This may be even more a barrier to the work than the fear of not doing the work at all. It takes courage to do what we believe we ought to do, when we think we shall be criticised or misunderstood or scorned. But the real calamity lies in not doing what we ought. Of this it is well to have so strong a fear that we shall have courage to face whatever others may say of our right doing.

He Let Her Sleep.

Some years ago a Swansea vessel was caught in a terrible gale. The captain had his wife on board, and when the wind was still rising he told her to go down below and sleep, for all was well. He remained on the bridge till the mate came up and said: "We've done all we can. Hadn't you better tell the chaps to get out the boats?"

"Yes, yes, my lad, if you think so,"

said the captain, who knew the only choice left was whether to go down with the ship or in a small boat, which couldn't live ten seconds in that sea.

The engineers came up with the news that the fires were all out. "Very well, my lads," said the captain quietly, "save yourselves if you can."

"Won't you fetch the wife on deck, sir?" asked one of the men.

"No," was the calm reply; "let her sleep, poor old girl. I am going down to have a smoke." And, smoking by
